In addition, Client Rights are reviewed with individuals and their Parents, Guardians or Advocates at each PCP meeting.

Client Rights

All individuals supported have the right to access services from SCDS based on the principles of respect and dignity. Various legislation protects the rights of clients to ensure that all persons served feel safe, protected and included. SCDS ensure that standards related to Client Rights are met through orientation and ongoing training of staff, students and volunteers regarding Client Rights and through assessment of our quality standards which meet MCCSS Quality Assurance Measures Compliance and Children's Licensing requirements. For further details about Client Rights, please reference Policy CL-or-006: Client Rights

Feedback. Complaints & Review Process

From time to time, individuals supported or others may not be satisfied with some aspect of the services and supports offered at SCDS and wish to provide feedback. Accepting feedback, including complaints, and addressing them appropriately is an essential part of evaluating the services that SCDS provides. Individuals connected to any SCDS services, their Parents, Guardians or Advocates and members of our community must feel supported in providing feedback or complaints; know that there will not be any risk to services based on their feedback or complaints; and understand who they can turn to if they feel that their feedback or complaint was not resolved in a mutually respected manner. The primary method to submit feedback is the SCDS website, however feedback can be submitted verbally or other communication method. Additional information can be found in Policy CL-or-007: Feedback, Complaints & Review Process or Policy AD-ge-117 Feedback & Complaints Regarding Services and Supports.

Respecting the Homes of the People We Serve and Code of Conduct

Programs operated at SCDS are client focused and our congregate living locations are recognized first and foremost, as the homes of the individuals that we support. Everyone entering these locations must be considerate of all of the individuals residing in these homes and show dignity and respect to others within the environment. Policy CL-or-005: Respecting the Homes of the People We Serve outlines the expectation to maintain a tranquil atmosphere in the home. Policy AD-ge-014: Code of Conduct for Persons Supported and Family Members, outlines the guidelines and expectations for acceptable conduct and behaviour towards Sunbeam staff, student and volunteers as well as other individuals receiving services and supports at each program location. In the event that there is a negative disruption to the environment, visitors may be asked to leave the premises, and should events escalate to an immediate or perceived threat or intimidation, 911 may be contacted as a last resort. Violations of these policies may lead to other interventions by SCDS to reduce the risk of future violations, maintain cohesiveness within each program and to protect the safety of all.
